Robins Lane Primary School Newsletter

31st January 2025

Headteacher's Notes

Dear parents and carers,

Happy Friday everyone! It's the last day of January today. January is a month that feels like its many more than 31 days and is followed by February, the shortest month of the year with only 28 days in 2025. February is not only the shortest month, but also a tricky spelling for our children to grasp – if you could work on this with your child it would really impress their teachers for the next four weeks!

Last week, our head student team – Oliver, Bethany, Dylan, and Amber – brought the weekly newsletter to life by recording a video of its contents and uploading it to our Facebook page. This was a big step for the team and they are looking forward to refining and perfecting their performances moving forwards. I am very proud of them!

This morning, our Year 3 pupils presented their musical theatre performance in the school hall for parents and carers. The children were incredible as they took the Stone, Bronze and Iron Age learning and presented it in the form of role play, songs, dance, poems, and narrative. This is such a vast, complex part of history and the children impressed everyone with their interpretation of this important period in history. The children were brave, confident and worked as a team. The huge round of applause and the big smiles at the end were well deserved. Thank you to parents and carers who were able to attend, it was a pleasure to welcome you into school.

Connections between school and home are vital. Earlier this week, we sent out dates for each year group's 'Parents to School' dates, times and focus. Details have been sent out on a letter. If you haven't seen this, please check your child's bag and if you still can't find it, it was also sent out as an email and it has been uploaded to our Facebook page. We look forward to welcoming you into school so we can share our experiences and help you to understand how to support your child on their educational journey.

I am delighted to announce that following our recent advertisement for a new parent governor, Chantelle Heaton, who has a child in Nursey and a child in Year 4, has secured her well-deserved place on our Governing Body. We look forward to working with Chantelle as she supports and challenges us to ensure we make every day count for the children of Robins Lane Community Primary School.

Have a wonderful weekend everyone – rest and recharge ready for whatever challenges next week will bring.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs Tomkow
