Headteacher's Notes

Dear parents and carers,

Today we are Robins Lane School of Rock! As usual, our families have gone above and beyond on NSPCC Number Day. This morning, Miss Graham and Mr Cox hosted a number themed assembly. It was incredible to see all of the children gathered together. The school was a sea of colour as our children channelled their inner rock stars. When I walked in, the room was bouncing as the children sang along to Queen's We Will Rock You. It was incredible. The children have had opportunities throughout the day to engage in number games and have raised awareness for an incredibly important charity which works tirelessly to fight for children and young people's rights and to keep our children and families safe. Thank you for your amazing efforts to support this.

This week was also children's mental health week and children have used this as a focus to develop their self-awareness and communication skills. They have also reflected on how, on their journey through school, they have grown both academically and emotionally.

Please could I encourage all parents to look at our Facebook page which chronicles life and capture teaching and learning at our wonderful school. Please log on to see photos of our incredible rock stars and to get further insight into the work we have completed to recognise the importance of healthy minds. It is also an opportunity for you to see and hear this newsletter come to life as it is presented by our head students.

Some of you might have noticed that we have some new installations on our playground. Thanks to our hugely generous families, and the work of our PTFA, we have been able to purchase 6 beach huts for our playground. The huts were delivered and installed on Wednesday so the children have had chance to familiarise themselves with them – the huts are going to be painted, named ('Name the hut' Competition details to follow soon) and kitted out with cushions, blankets, books and other activities. The huts have obviously caused a great deal of excitement and we have had to speak to the children to ensure that they understand the rules of use and treat the huts with care and respect – please could you reinforce this message!

Yesterday, Robins Lane was host to a giant Arctic map. The enormous map took up most of our hall and each class got to experience this amazing resource. They learnt lots about the arctic without getting cold! Thank you to Mr Rogers for organising this.

Have a wonderful weekend everyone – rest and recharge ready for the last week of this half term.

Yours sincerely,
Mrs Tomkow
